Student Complaint Procedures

In compliance with the Higher Education Opportunities Act of 2008, the U.S. Department of Education (USDOE) conducted a Negotiated Rule Making Process in 2010 that requires institutions offering distance education to provide enrolled and prospective students with contact information for filing complaints with its accrediting agency and with the appropriate state agency for handling complaints in the student's state.

The University of Charleston takes student complaints seriously. Most complaints can be resolved within the University itself. This can be done initially by engaging in open communication with the individual directly involved. If the issue is not satisfactorily resolved, the student should contact the individual's supervisor, department chair or School Dean for assistance in reaching a resolution.

If this informal process is unsuccessful, the student is encouraged to complete the UC Student Complaints Form. Note that while providing contact information on the form is voluntary, the University will be unable to communicate with the student about the complaint without it. Once the form is completed it will be submitted to the Office of the Provost and to the appropriate supervisor, department chair or School Dean.

Complaints about grades are handled through the University's Policy on Grade Appeal, which is published in both the Student Handbook and the Academic Catalog.

For complaints about sexual discrimination, sexual harassment, or sexual assault or violence, contact the University's Title IX coordinator:

If a student has exhausted the University's internal processes and remains dissatisfied, a formal complaint can be filed with the West Virginia Higher Education Policy Commission using that body's established Student Complaint Process.

The University of Charleston is accredited by the Higher Learning Commission. Complaints about the university can be submitted to that body using its Complaints System, or by writing, emailing or telephoning:

International Enrollments

Some countries will not formally recognize foreign online degrees, which may have implications for students who later seek to enroll in other educational programs, or for those who seek employment with such a country's government or other employers requiring specific credentials. In some cases students enrolled in online programs may be subject to additional taxes, adding to the cost of their education.

It is the student's responsibility to understand any circumstances or special requirements that determine whether the online degree will be recognized in the student's country of residence and/or in any country in which the student intends to work.

State Authorization Reciprocity Agreement

The University of Charleston participates in the State Authorization Reciprocity Agreement (SARA). This agreement authorizes UC to deliver online programs to students in the SARA states and to place UC students in those states for supervised field experiences. If a UC student is located in a SARA state, complaints must first go through the University's procedures for resolution of student grievances. If the student is not satisfied with the outcome of the institutional process, the complaint may then be brought to the SARA portal agency in the institution's home state. Contact information for such complaints is included below.
